

Kevin McCabe

Kevin McCabe brings an extensive record of accomplishment in the public and private sectors to Ickes Enright McCabe.

Kevin has deep experience in the politics and government of New York City. He served as Chief of Staff to the New York City Council where he was responsible for the day-to-day operation of the 51-member legislative body. As Chief of Staff, he was responsible for the development, implementation and management of all legislative, political, land use and fiscal policies under Speaker Peter Vallone. Kevin also served as the senior negotiator with the Mayor and his staff of the annual $80 billion NYC budget on behalf of the Council.

Kevin has held a number of senior management positions in NYC government including Assistant Commissioner of Health; Special Interim Administrator of the Office of Chief Medical Examiner; Special Assistant to the Chancellor of the Board of Education; and Deputy Director of Citywide Programs for Children with Special Needs.

He served as the Director of Operations of the 1990 New York City Districting Commission where his team successfully pre-cleared NYC electoral maps with the US Department of Justice following a US Supreme Court decision that eliminated the Board of Estimate and replaced it with an expanded Council.

In addition to his extensive governmental experience, Kevin has held senior positions in a number of citywide and New York statewide political campaigns, including senior strategist and manager of Peter Vallone's upset Democratic nomination for Governor; a senior strategist of David Dinkins' successful campaign as the City's first Black Mayor; political director for Mayor Dinkin's reelection campaign; senior advisor to Mayor Bill de Blasio in his previous campaign for NYC Council Speaker. Nationally, Kevin served in the presidential campaigns of Bill Clinton, Al Gore and John Kerry. He has close relations with a number of the New York congressional delegation.

Following his government service, Kevin has founded, owned and operated a number of businesses, with a particular focus on the sports and entertainment industries. He has also served on Boards of Directors including Managing Director for Intergovernmental Relations, NYC 2012, the official Olympic bid chosen to represent the United States.

Born and raised in New York City, Kevin has a BA from St. Francis College, Brooklyn, New York, and is a graduate of the Institute on Comparative Political and Economic Systems at Georgetown University, Washington, DC.
